Profile of Nominee

I am an Architect and Director of Wilson and Hill Architects. I established the firm 25 years ago when I returned from working in London with DEGW and ORMS. I graduated from Victoria University School of Architecture with a Bachelor of Architecture (Hons) in 1990 and became a Registered Architect in 1994 after working for Don Donnithorne.

I am a member of the St Barnabas Parish in Fendalton. Following the 2011 Christchurch earthquakes, I was Chairman of the Works Committee working with a team overseeing the rebuild of the historic stone church. This project included interactions with the parish, CPT, the heritage architect and the building contractors. More recently, I have been appointed to the 'Functional Design Committee' for the rebuild of the Christchurch Cathedral representing the Christchurch Diocese. This rebuild project is currently underway.

I am married to Geraldine and together we have four boys who are all currently at school. In our spare time we enjoy jet boating on the South Island rivers and lakes.
